

Privacy Notice. The Emergency Volunteer Corps of Nehalem Bay (EVCNB) is your local volunteer emergency preparedness organization. EVCNB asks for your name and contact information so that we have the ability to track your involvement in preparedness. We respect your privacy and take protecting it seriously. EVCNB uses the data to offer classes or trainings we think you will like or need, to notify you of drills or emergency-response activities, and to alert you to emergencies. Before or during a disaster, or during our community's recovery, some of this information will be shared with fire, police, utilities or select government agencies in order to aid people and the whole community.

We believe that keeping this information, and providing limited access, is critical to our community preparation, response and recovery from disaster. This information is not shared with any business, other organization or sold to a third party provider. You may opt out of our email and text notification system at any time, but doing so will limit the opportunities to prepare yourself and your household or to be alerted/activated to a local emergency. To repeat, the information about you and your family is used only for purposes of training, disaster and recovery.
